Why did you use the phrase, 'with fear and trembling'? Why, therefore, do those very vain and perverse Pelagians say that the law is the grace of God by which we are helped not to sin? So, we must see the difference between the spread of the gospel, the preached word, and the law. Wherefore the law is holy ; and the commandment holy just, and good. Nevertheless, lest the will itself should be deemed capable of doing any good thing without the grace of God after saying, His grace within me was not in vain, but I have laboured more abundantly than they all, he immediately added the qualifying clause, Yet not I, but On Grace and Free Will grace of God which was with me. For without the law sin was dead. Surely such precepts would not be given unless they were of God who shows mercy, but of the man who wills and runs.
