Likewise, Josiah Royce in the United States conceived the absolute as a unitary Knower whose experience constitutes what we know as the "external" world. This seemingly self-contradictory unity, of course, is The Absolute to be the mystery to be understood.

In these lines, he further discusses the difference between the two Taos. If the nameless is the origin of Heaven and Earth the named is the mother of myriad things. Thus, constantly without desire, one observes its essence. Constantly with desire, The Absolute observes its manifestations. These two emerge together but differ in name. The unity is said to be the mystery. In Christian theology the Absolute philosophy the absolute is understood in the strict sense by excluding any form of relativity, which in turn raises questions regarding the personality of God.
