All other cards have a value of 0 points. In any of these cases, the winning player is the one with the fewest penalty points.

Richard Garfield recommends the following variation, introduced around 1970. The dealer deals out all the cards. On the third hand each player passes three cards to the player sitting opposite. The player who played the highest ranking card in the suit that was led wins that trick.

On the fourth hand no cards are passed at all. I lived in the projects and welfare is another variant played in the United States version, Hearts, that you may want to add to your game, but make sure everyone knows this option is available. English Choose a language for shopping.
